CCHS Conducts Safety Drill

Students & staff learn what to do in an emergency

You can't wait until an emergency occurs to start to plan. The safety of our students and staff depends upon knowing what to do in the event something happens. Planning for a lockdown event has been the goal of the safety committee since its inception and lots of time and energy has been put into making sure that everyone knows what to do.

Recently, it was all put into practice as the school held its first emergency evacuation drill. Members of the Ohio County Sheriff's office, the Wheeling Police and the Ohio County EMA were all on hand to assist as the school was evacuated and students were sent to 'safe' offsite locations.

So, how did we do? We're proud to say we did great! Clearly, the students understand the importance of being prepared and have listened throughout the training process because they followed directions and everything went according to plan. Of course, our fervent hope is that we never have an occasion to use what we've learned, but we are so thankful to the Safety Committee for all its hard work in making sure that we're prepared.

Chief Deputy John Schultz, Mr. Magruder and Ohio County Sheriff Tom Howard prepare to address the students after the completion of our recent safety drill.
